GENDER AND DEVELOPMENT CODE OF THE UNIVERSITY OF RIZAL SYSTEM

A. Introduction

The University of Rizal System envisions a learning environment that is free of gender-based violence and promotes the self-determination and actualization of each individual.

Many efforts have been initiated and implemented to achieve Gender and Development (GAD) objectives, and it has been integrated into the university's development planning in all aspects of operations. GAD mainstreaming was introduced and trained for teachers, non-teaching staff, students, and other stakeholders or external clients. The university ensures the institutionalization of gender-related concerns and priorities by establishing and strengthening the GAD Focal Point System, which serves as the planners and implementers of GAD programs, projects, and activities. GAD at the university protects and promotes the well-being of women, children, senior citizens, and humanity to create a more equitable and better future for everyone.

Through this GAD Code, the University of Rizal System can ensure that the Magna Carta of Women (MCW), also known as RA 9710, and other GAD-related mandates and frameworks on gender equality and empowerment are translated and fulfilled on an institutional level. The MCW calls on various stakeholders to create and approve a GAD Code based on priority gender issues and concerns.

B. URS Vision, Mission, Core Values and Quality Policy

Vision

The leading university in human resource development, knowledge and technology generation and environmental stewardship.

Mission

The University of Rizal System is committing to nurture and produce upright and competent graduates and empowered community through relevant and sustainable higher professional and technical instruction, research, extension and production services.

Core Values

- R - Responsiveness
- I - Integrity
- S - Service
- E - Excellence
- S - Social Responsibility

Quality Policy

The University of Rizal System commits to deliver excellent products and services to ensure total stakeholders' satisfaction in instruction, research, extension, production and dynamic administrative support and to continuously improve its quality management system processes to satisfy all applicable requirements.

C. URS GAD Vision, Mission, Goals and Objectives

GAD Vision

URS is the premier higher learning institution on gender mainstreaming in the province of Rizal and beyond toward a gender-responsive society for sustainable development.

GAD Mission

The University is committed to promote gender-responsive development and empowerment through capability building, advocacy, instruction, research, linkage and extension services.

GAD Goals

Goal 1: To develop a gender-sensitive curriculum and promote gender equality in education.

Goal 2: To integrate gender perspectives in research and use the results as a basis for an effective GAD plan and program implementation.

Goal 3: To establish sustainable partnerships and linkages through GAD-related extension services, training, and advocacy to promote gender equality and women's empowerment.

Goal 4: To increase the production of IEC, instructional materials, and knowledge products on GAD.

Objectives

1. To organize the GAD Committee on all campuses, develop and continually support the capacities of the GAD pool of trainers, resource persons, advocates and service providers.
2. To disseminate information and increase awareness on gender issues and concerns, women's human rights, GAD mainstreaming, planning and budgeting, gender analysis, and tools through orientation, trainings and seminar-workshops.
3. To conduct gender-related research studies, map existing initiatives and showcase new initiatives on GAD.
4. To develop and collect gender-related materials such as information, education and communication (IEC) materials, publication and tools, multi-media, gender statistics, research studies, and a directory of GAD experts.
5. To integrate gender perspectives in the policy, curriculum, research and extension, advocacy, linkages, training and other development programs.
6. To provide technical assistance to the concerned Regional/ Provincial Line Agencies (R/PLAs), Local Government Units (LGUs), State Universities and Colleges (SUCs), Non-Government/Private Organizations (NGOs/POs) toward developing their capabilities and capacities for GAD mainstreaming.

D. Historical Background of University of Rizal System

The University of Rizal System is a merger of two (2) state colleges and a university extension campus - the Rizal Polytechnic College, Rizal State College, and the Rizal Technological University extension campus. The Republic Act 9157 lapsed into law on August 11, 2001, established as a State University in the province of Rizal to be known as the University of Rizal System, by integrating the Rizal State College and its extension campuses in Angono, Binangonan, Pililla and Rodriguez, the Rizal Polytechnic College and its extension campus in Cainta and Rizal Technological University-Antipolo Annex, all in the province of Rizal. On June 18, 2002, CHED Resolution No. 411-4004 was issued identifying Tanay Campus as the main campus of the University.

The Rizal National Agricultural School (RNAS) was established by Republic Act Number 1560 authored by Cong. Serafin Salvador, which was approved on June 16, 1956. RNAS was opened on May 27, 1959. It was chartered as a state college on June 24, 1983 by Batas Pambansa Bilang 622 authored by Assemblyman Frisco F. San Juan making it the first state college in the Province of Rizal known as Rizal College of Agriculture and Technology (RCAT). RCAT was later renamed Rizal State College (RSC) by virtue of Republic Act 7858 sponsored by Hon. Congressman Emigdio S. Tanjuatco, Jr. and approved by His Excellency Fidel V. Ramos on January 21, 1995.

Rizal Polytechnic College was first established as Morong High School on August 16, 1944. It was converted into Morong National High School on August 20, 1976 and to Morong National Comprehensive School on March 30, 1977. With the integration of Tomas Claudio Memorial Elementary School, it was converted into Morong National Comprehensive School, later renamed Rizal Technological and Polytechnic Institute on August 10, 1983 through Batas Pambansa 469. RTPI became a state college, the Rizal Polytechnic College on March 1, 1995 through Republic Act 7933. Through Board of Trustees Resolution No. 06-13-98 dated February 12, 1998. RPC Cardona Research Extension was established.

At present the University operates with ten (10) campuses in the Province of Rizal, namely: URS Angono, Antipolo, Binangonan, Cainta, Cardona, Morong, Pililla, Rodriguez, Tanay and Taytay. It offers complete education from kindergarten to graduate school. The University implements a number of academic programs in the doctorate, masters, baccalaureate, non-degree and short-term courses. It also provides research, extension and production services as well as establishment of centers. The existence of the University caters to the needs of the stakeholders within and nearby provinces.

E. URS as CALABARZON GAD Resource Center

The Regional Development Council IV-A designated the University of Rizal System, in its capacity as the host institution of CALABARZON GAD Resource Center (GRC), pursuant to RDC Resolution No. IV-A-45-2005, signed on July 28, 2005, in Taguig City. In order to effectively implement Gender and Development (GAD) programs, projects, and activities (PPAs) and promote gender responsive governance, it is mandated to offer guidance and technical assistance to various Regional Line Agencies (RLAs), Local Government Units (LGUs), State Universities and Colleges (SUCs), and Non- Government/Private Organizations (NGO/POs).

The rationale and need for the RGC have been conceptualized to support national commitment and the global efforts toward gender equity and equality to contribute to social, political, economic and cultural development. It supports Republic Act 7192 known as Women in Development and Nation Building Act, which promotes the integration of women as full and equal partners of men in development and nation building and for other purposes. The need was also strengthened based on the assessment that only few among government agencies and institutions in the region are properly implementing GAD-related PPAs.

With this, URS tried its very best to strengthen its efforts and commitment to gender mainstreaming across all campuses and to sustain its technical assistance to its partner agencies. It provides capability building and training on gender sensitivity, GAD mainstreaming, planning and budgeting, gender analysis and tools like the Gender Mainstreaming Evaluation Framework (GMEF), the Harmonized Gender and Development Guidelines (HGDG), and the Gender-Responsive Local Government (GeRL) Assessment Tool, among others.

As the CALABARZON GAD Resource Center, URS educates both internal and external clients on gender-related topics such as gender-fair or inclusive language, sex disaggregated data collection, gender-based violence, and women's human rights. It also disseminates information on gender sensitive research and gender-responsive extension services, gender issues and concerns in education, leadership, labor, migration, health and wellness, LGBTQIA+ rights and concerns, reproductive health and adolescent pregnancy, GAD KATROPA Move, Gender Equality, and Safe Spaces, as well as GAD trainer training.

F. URS GAD Logo

Meaning of the Logo Design

- Woman. This represents an empowered woman with knowledge and competence in her work and responsibilities, as well as unconditional love and care for her family and others.
- Man. This represents a man who is gender sensitive and responsive, passionate about his family, responsible for his roles and responsibilities, has a humble heart, respects equal rights, and encourages others' development and self-actualization.
- Leaves. This represents the ten campuses of URS that represent sustained positive development among people, and they are committed to promote gender equality and empowerment through education and collaborative efforts to address gender issues and concerns that impedes one's development and to continue to mainstream GAD in the university's various programs, projects and activities with harmony.

- Shaking Hands. This represents an empowering relationship between men and women, as they assist one another in extending a helping hand to those in need.
- Gender Signs. The circle supported by a cross represents the feminine strength, and the spiral sphere represents their evolving traits and roles from being weak and submissive to being determined and empowered. The male or masculine symbol is a cross with an arrow head in dynamic motion, which represents their power guided by the principles of equal rights, women empowerment, and gender equality.
- Pillar. This represents URS, which serves as a pillar of the community and contributes significantly to the advancement and equality of the people.
- Map. This represents Rizal Province, the home of URS.

G. Scope of URS GAD Code

The GAD Code incorporates the URS vision, mission, core values, and quality policy, as well as the GAD vision, mission, goals, objectives, historical background, and mandate as a CALABARZON GAD Resource Center. It includes the policy statement, guidelines, structure, composition, roles, and responsibilities of the university's and campus's GAD focal point systems (GFPS) which catalyze and accelerate gender mainstreaming toward gender equality and women's empowerment.

It encompasses the processes of GAD mainstreaming, the application of gender analysis tools, guidelines on strengthening GAD policy and mainstreaming strategies, gender-responsive research and extension programs, and gender mainstreaming in the curriculum. Expertise sharing with its GAD focal persons who are certified GAD resource pool members of the Philippine Commission on Women and CALABARZON Regional GAD Committee, special events, procedures for conducting GAD PPAs, physical facilities used in implementing GAD PPAs, special groups, and university organizations that support GAD, budget allocation, coordination, implementation, monitoring, and evaluation are also highlighted.

Chapter 1

Title, Statement of Policy and Definition of Terms

Section 1. Title. This code shall be known as the GENDER AND DEVELOPMENT (GAD) CODE OF THE UNIVERSITY OF RIZAL SYSTEM.

Section 2. Statement of Policy. The University of Rizal System adheres to the following policies:

2.1 Both women and men benefit equally and participate directly in the development programs and projects of its various departments and units, ensuring the full participation and involvement of both women and men in the development process pursuant to RA 7192;

2.2 The University shall uphold the rights of women and the belief in their worth and dignity as human beings in accordance with the fundamental freedoms guaranteed under the provisions of the Philippine Constitution and the provisions of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights, the Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Elimination and Discrimination against Women (CEDAW), and other international rights instruments to which the Philippines is a party.

2.3 Women shall be recognized as full and equal partners with men in development and nation-building, and men shall share equally in all forms of productive and reproductive activities.

2.4 URS shall pursue and implement, vigorously gender responsive development policies, design and integrate specific gender support systems, take into consideration women's rights to economic survival, political participation, self-determination, personal improvement, and personal empowerment, adopt and implement measures to protect and promote their rights, and ensure the widest participation of women in university programs, projects, and activities.

2.5 Non-discrimination against lesbians, gays, bisexuals, trans- gender/sexual or people with other gender identities. Discrimination based on sexual orientation, gender identity and expression (SOGIE) for participation in university development programs and projects, as well as other personal development activities, is a violation of human rights. Every person's right to express his or her sexual preference must be respected and protected.

Section 3. Rights of Women. Women's rights are the rights of women that are defined and declared by the United Nations under the Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Discrimination against Women (CEDAW) as follows:

- a. Women have the right to the prevention of and protection from all forms of violence, political coercion against their person, their freedom, their sexuality, and their individuality.
- b. Women have the right to freely and fully participate, individually or collectively, in the political processes of their communities and nations.
- c. Women have the right to the means to ensure their economic welfare and security.
- d. Women have the right to the necessary knowledge and means for the full exercise of their reproductive choice in accordance with the Constitution and their beliefs and preferences.
- e. Women have the right to choose a spouse in accordance with their values and preference, maintain equality in marriage or its dissolution, and obtain adequate support for the rearing and caring of their children.
- f. Women have the right to an adequate, relevant, and gender-fair education throughout their lives, from childhood to adulthood.
- g. Women have the right to adequate nutrition and proper health care.
- h. Women have the right to humane living conditions.
- i. Women have the right to nurture their personhood, collectively and individually, to secure an image of themselves as whole and valuable human beings and to build relationships based on respect, trust and mutuality.

Section 4. Definition of Terms.

The following terms are used in this University GAD Code and defined operationally:

Children - refer to those below eighteen (18) years of age or older but are incapable of taking care of them as defined under Republic Act No 7610 - Special Protection of Children against Child Abuse, Exploitation and Discrimination.

Gender - refers to the roles, attitudes and values assigned by culture and society to women and men. These roles, attitudes and values define the behavior of women and men and the relationship between them. They are created and maintained by social institutions such as families, governments, communities, schools, churches and media.

Gender and Development (GAD) - refers to the development perspective and processes that are participatory and empowering, equitable, sustainable, free from violence, respectful of human rights, supportive of self- discrimination, and actualize human potential. It seeks to achieve gender equality as a fundamental value that should be reflected in development choices; seeks to transform society's social, economic, and political structures and questions the validity of gender roles they ascribe to women and men; contends that women are active agents of development and not just passive recipients of development assistance; and stresses the need for women to organize themselves and participate in political processes to strengthen their legal rights.

Gender Equality - refers to the principle asserting the equality of men and women and their right to enjoy equal conditions, realizing their full human potential to contribute to and benefit from the results of development, and with the State recognizing that all human beings are free and equal in dignity and rights.

Gender Mainstreaming - refers to the strategy for making women's as well as men's concerns and experiences an integral dimension of the design, implementation, monitoring, and evaluation of policies and programs in all political, economic, and societal spheres so that women and men benefit equally and inequality is not perpetuated. It is the process of assessing the implications for women and men of any planned action, including legislation, policies, or programs, in all areas and at all levels.

Gender Perspective - refers to the way of viewing issues and problems that takes into consideration the different realities of women's and men's lives and recognizes that there is an unequal relationship between the two.

Gender-Responsive - refers to policies and programs that systematically incorporate or address gender concerns that aim to reduce inequalities between men and women and that are based on a gender analysis of the situation This may also refer to programs in which gender equality issues are fully integrated or mainstreamed in all aspects and activities.

Gender Sensitive - refers to the ability to recognize gender issues and women's different perceptions and interests arising from their different social positions and gender issues.

Gender Sensitization - refers to an experiential and critical process of learning and unlearning by an individual, female or male, of the causes and effects of the culturally determined roles of women and men

Physical Violence - refers to acts that include bodily or physical harm.

Psychological Violence - refers to acts or omissions causing or likely to cause mental and emotional suffering to the victim, such as but not limited to intimidation, harassment, stalking, damage to property, public ridicule or humiliation, repeated verbal abuse, and marital infidelity.

Reproductive Health – refers to a state of complete physical, mental, and social well-being, not merely the absence of disease and infirmity, in all matters relating to the reproductive system and its functions and processes.

Sex - refers to the state of being male or female, males or females collectively.

Sex Disaggregated Data - refers to the separate data pertaining to the profile and relevant information for men and women, males and females.

Women's Empowerment - refers to the provision, availability, and accessibility of opportunities, services, and the observance of human rights that enable women to actively participate and contribute to the political, economic, social, and cultural development of the nation and those that shall provide them equal access to ownership, management and control of production, as well as material and informational resources and benefits in the family, community and society.

Chapter 2

Gender and Development Focal Point System

Section 1. Policy Guidelines

The gender approach to development, also known by its acronym GAD (Gender and Development), was introduced in government in the early 1990s and seeks to transform the way government pursues development so that it can respond effectively and with sensitivity to issues confronting women. In fact, the GAD perspective recognizes that gender concerns cut across all areas of development and therefore should not be overlooked in the development planning process. Indeed, gender must influence the government when it plans, budgets for implementation, monitors, and evaluates policies, programs, and projects for development (NCRFW, 2003).

Gender and Development (GAD) refers to the development perspective and process that is participatory and empowering, equitable, sustainable, free from violence, respectful of human rights, supportive of self-determination, and actualizing human potential. It seeks to achieve gender equality as a fundamental value that should be reflected in development choices and contends that women are active agents of development, not just passive recipients of development.

At the same time, the Annual General Appropriations Act (GAA) requires government agencies and LGUs to reserve at least five (5) percent of their total appropriations to implement GAD plans, which has been provided since Fiscal Year 1994.

Pursuant to Section 36 of Republic Act 9710 otherwise known as the Magna Carta of Women (MCW), all government departments, including their attached agencies, offices, bureaus, state universities and colleges, government-owned and controlled corporations, local government units, and all other government instrumentalities, shall adopt gender mainstreaming as a strategy to promote women's human rights and eliminate gender discrimination in their systems, structures, policies, programs, processes, and procedures.

In addition, the Philippine Commission on Women's (PCW) Memorandum Circular (MC) 2011-01, or Guidelines for the Creation, Strengthening, and Institutionalization of the GAD Focal Point System (GFPS), is expected to increase the understanding and support of government agencies at the national level for their GFPS or similar mechanisms to accelerate gender mainstreaming in their offices. By strengthening their GFPS and transforming it into a GAD focal point system, the task of gender mainstreaming will become the collective responsibility and accountability of all concerned offices and officials.

Agencies with existing GFPS or similar mechanisms shall reconstitute and strengthen the said mechanisms based on the provisions of RA 9710, its IRR, and PCW Memo Circular 2011-01 (PCW, 2012).

Section 2. Structure and Composition of the University GAD Focal Point System (GFPS)

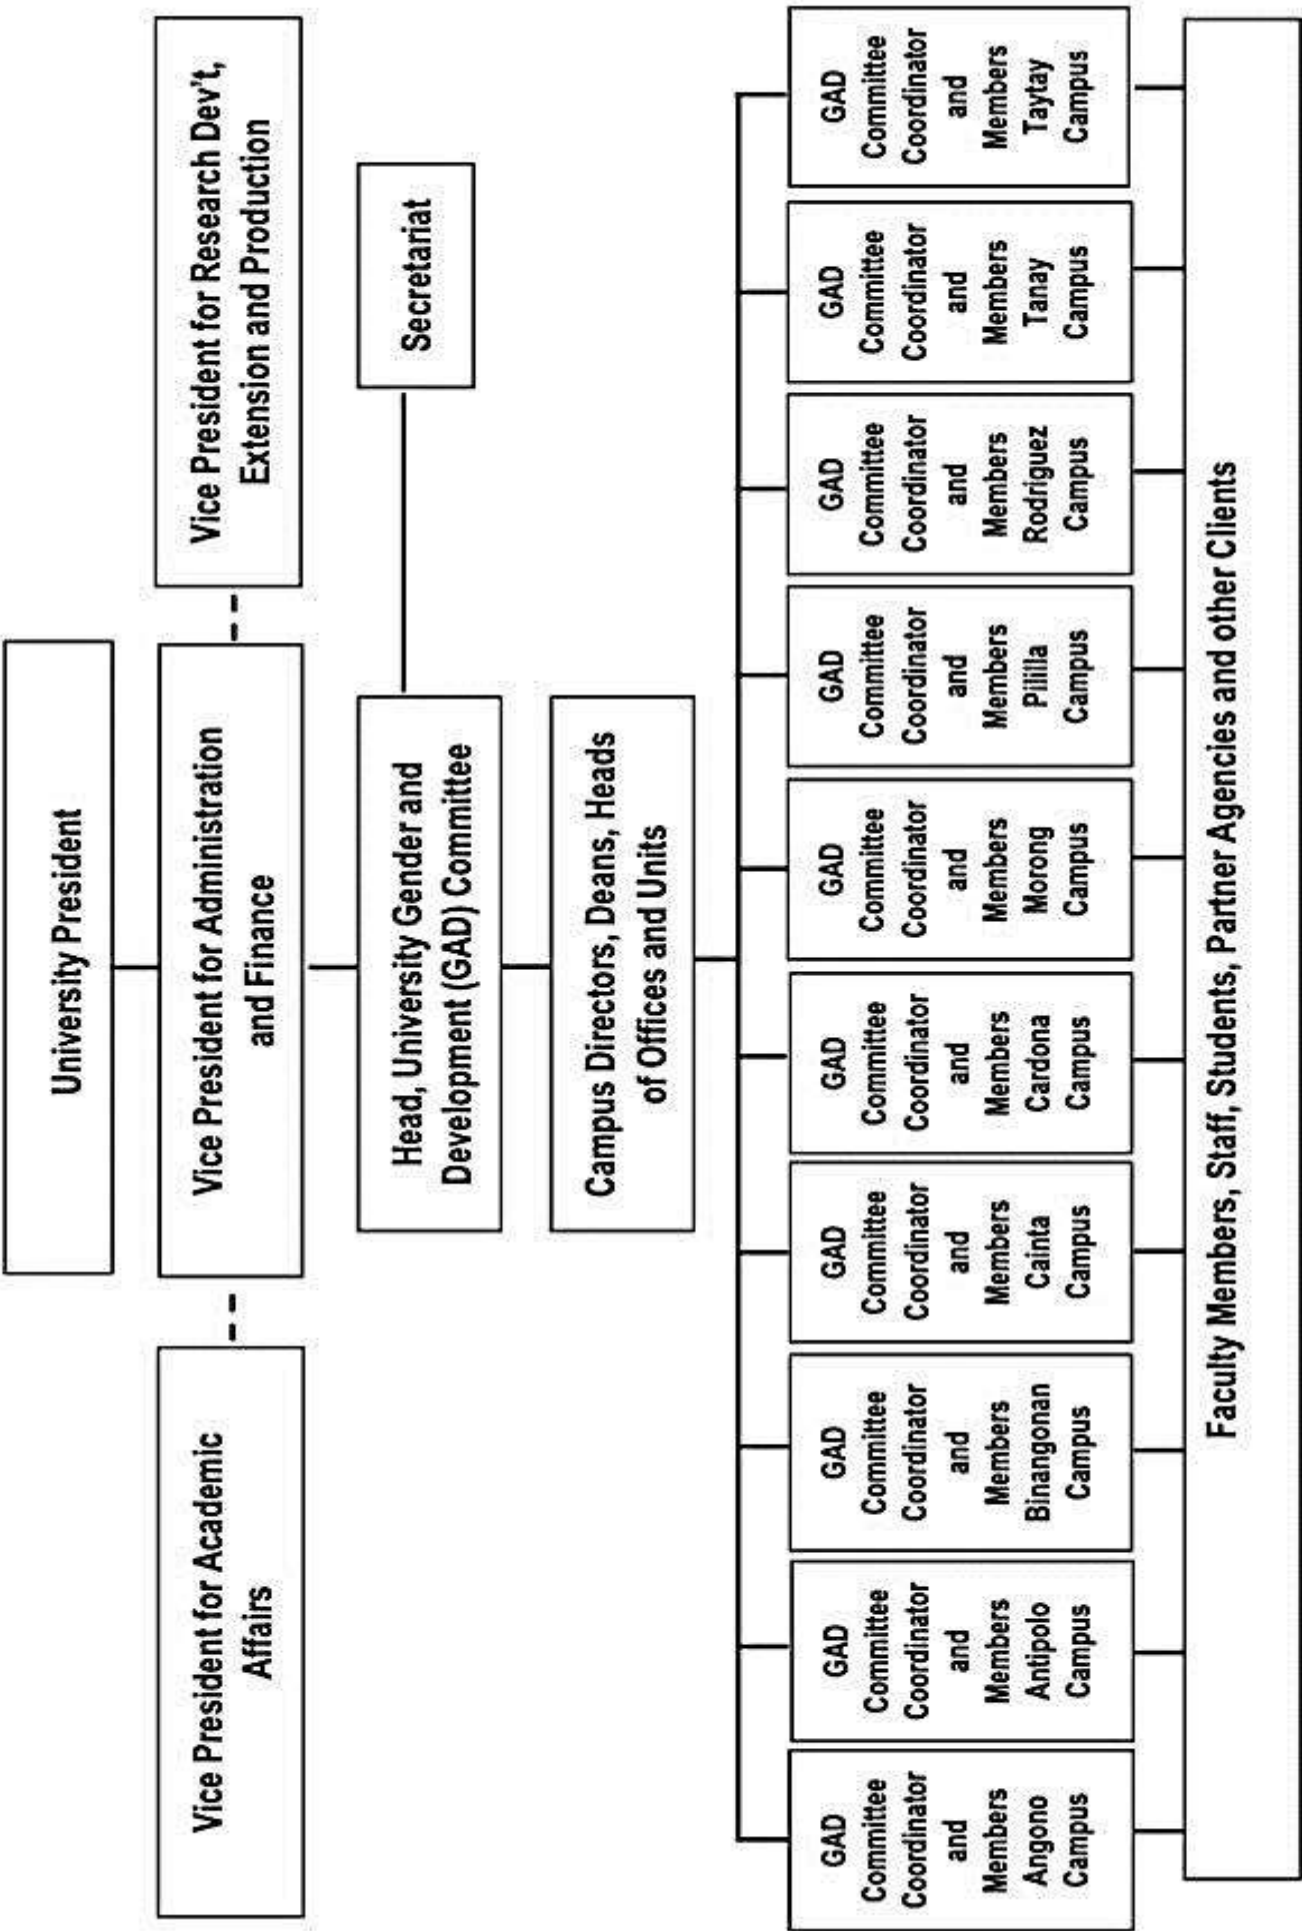

It shall be composed of the University President as Head of the GFPS, with the Vice President for Administration and Finance (VPAF) in coordination with the Vice President of Academic Affairs (VPAA), and Vice President of Research Development, Extension, and Productivity (VPRDEP) as the Executive Committee (Exe Com), the University GAD Focal Committee, Technical Working Group (TWG) and Secretariat. The university president may designate the VPRDEP or a female VP as an alternate chair to head the GFPS or GAD Committee of the university.

The GAD Focal Point System (GFPS) of the University shall lead in mainstreaming gender perspectives in university policies, plans, and programs. In the process, they will ensure the assessment of the gender- responsiveness of systems, structures, policies, programs, processes and procedures of the agency based on the priority needs and concerns of constituencies and employees and the formulation of recommendations, including their implementation.

Section 3. Functions of the University GAD Focal Point System (GFPS)

1. The University President, as the Head of Agency and serves as the Head of the University GFPS shall:
 - a. Issue policies or other directives that support GAD mainstreaming in the policies, plans, programs, projects and activities, budget, systems and procedures of the university including the creation, strengthening, modification, or reconstitution of the GFPS, or GAD Committee; and
 - b. Approve the GAD Plan, Program and Budget of the university as duly endorsed by the Vice Presidents (RDEP, AF and AA) as the Executive Committee, with the assistance of the Technical Working Group, and ensure its implementation.
2. The Executive Committee which composed of the Vice Presidents for AF, AA and RDEP, AF and AA shall:
 - a. Provide direction and give policy advice to the agency head or university president to support and strengthen the GFPS or GAD committee and GAD mainstreaming activities;
 - b. Direct the identification of GAD strategies, programs, activities, and projects based on the results of the gender audit, and gender analysis and according to the identified priorities of the agency in response to the gender issues faced by its clients, faculty, staff and students;
 - c. Ensure the effective and efficient implementation of the agency's GAD programs, activities and projects, and the judicious utilization of the GAD budget;
 - d. Build and strengthen the partnership of the agency with PCW, GAD experts, advocates, women's groups and other stakeholders in pursuit of gender mainstreaming;
 - e. Recommend approval of agency GAD plans and budget and accomplishment report; and
 - f. Recommend awards or recognition to outstanding institutional GAD programs, activities and projects and/or GAD focal.

UNIVERSITY GAD FOCAL POINT SYSTEM ORGANIZATIONAL STRUCTURE

3. The University GAD Focal Committee which composed of the GAD coordinators and members from all campuses shall:
 - a. Lead in setting up appropriate systems and mechanisms to ensure the generation, processing, review, and updating of sex-disaggregated data or GAD database to serve as basis in performance-based gender responsive planning;
 - b. Coordinate the efforts of different campuses, colleges and offices to advocate for the integration of the GAD perspective in all their systems and processes;
 - c. Spearhead the preparation of the agency's annual performance-based GAD Plans, Programs and Budget in response to gender issues of their constituencies and clients in the context of their agency mandate and consolidate the same following the format and procedure prescribed by the PCW, DBM and NEDA in the Joint Circular 2012-1;
 - d. Submit the consolidated GAD Plans and Budget of the university and as needed response to PCW's comments or requests for additional information;
 - e. Lead in monitoring the effective implementation of GAD-related policies and the annual GAD plans, programs, and budget;
 - f. Lead the preparation and consolidation of the annual agency GAD Accomplishment Report and other GAD Reports that may be required under the MCW;
 - g. Strengthen the external link with other agencies or organizations working on women's rights, to harmonize, and synchronize GAD efforts at various levels of governance;
 - h. Promote and actively pursue the participation of women and gender advocates, other civil society groups, and private organizations in the various stages of the development planning cycle, giving special attention to the marginalized sectors; and
 - i. Ensure that all key officials, faculty members, and staff including the finance officers (e.g. accountant, budget officer, and auditors) are capacitated on GAD. Along this line, they shall recommend and plan an appropriate capacity development program on gender and development for its employees as part of and implemented under its regular human resource development program.
4. The University GAD Technical Working Group (TWG) which compose of the campus directors, college deans, head of offices and units such as policy and planning, budget, finance, research, and extension, among others shall work with the human resource management office (HRMO) on the development and implementation of an appropriate capacity development program on gender equality and women empowerment of its faculty members and staff as requested or deemed necessary, for other offices as the case may be. It shall assist the University GAD Focal Committee to:
 - a. Facilitate the implementation of the gender mainstreaming efforts of the University through GAD planning and budgeting process;
 - b. Formulate the university GAD Plans, Programs and Budget in response to the gender gaps and issues faced by their clients and constituencies, female and male faculty member, employees and students following the conduct of gender audit, gender analysis, and/or review of sex- disaggregated data;

- c. Strengthen capacity development of and provide technical assistance to the university's key officials, directors, deans, heads and coordinators as needed.
 - d. Coordinate with the different campuses through the campus GAD coordinator and members and ensure their meaningful participation in GAD strategic and annual planning exercises.
 - e. Conduct of advocacy activities and the development of IEC materials to ensure critical support of the university's key officials, faculty members, staff, students and relevant stakeholders to the activities of the GFPS or GAD Committee and GAD mainstreaming activities.
 - f. Monitor the implementation of GAD-related programs, projects and activities on different campuses and suggest corrective measures to improve the implementation of GAD PPAs and GFPS or GAD Committee initiatives.
 - g. Prepare and consolidate the university GAD accomplishment report.

Chapter 3

GAD - RELATED PROGRAMS, PROJECTS AND ACTIVITIES (PPAs)

The GAD paradigm is translated from theory to practice through the mainstreaming strategy. Gender mainstreaming refers to the strategy for making women's as well as men's concerns and experiences an integral dimension of the design, implementation, monitoring, and evaluation of policies, programs and projects in all social, political, civil, and economic spheres so that women and men benefit equally. It is the process of assessing the implications for women and men of any planned action, including legislation, policies or programs in all areas and at all levels.

Section 1. Conscientization

Any discussion or activity on GAD shall begin with raising consciousness about women's subordination and the differential roles male and female play because of gender role definitions.

This is also part of foundation formation, the challenge at the onset of any change effort is getting people to understand, appreciate and imbibe the need for change. It also includes the agency's decision to incorporate GAD in their regular program, issue broad statements by top management expressing support for GAD and its concepts, reviewing existing policies, both addressing the agency's personnel and its clients, to determine their gender responsiveness, allocating budget to fund GAD-related activities and evaluating and analyzing the organization's potentials for incorporating GAD in its programs and projects.

Section 2. Advocacy

This is the process of creating support, strengthening that support through consensus building, fostering a favorable climate, and creating a supportive or enabling environment. This should start with recognizing that GAD concerns are widespread issues that need to be addressed by oneself, the organization, and the community. Plan for the conduct of the GAD assessment using the GAD analysis tool, use the result as the starting point of the GAD advocacy, and prepare for the advocacy plan.

Section 3. Capability Building

These are the activities that enable the individual GAD advocate, focal point, or committee to develop specializations that will help her or him facilitate the attainment of gender equity. Trainings include personal effectiveness, leadership training, interpersonal communication, gender sensitivity training, GAD mainstreaming, gender-responsive planning, budgeting, monitoring and evaluation, gender analysis, and related tools.

Section 4. Capacity Building

These include activities that enable the organization to address gender issues and concerns in different aspects, ensuring that the agency's flagship programs address gender issues, and GAD training programs that are more focused and particular to the needs of the sponsors, advocates, and targets of change.

Section 5. Operationalization

These include explicit integration of GAD concerns in all aspects of the organization and phases of the project cycle, alliance building and trainers' pool, linkage and networking with other GAD advocates and women's organizations, resource mobilization, recognition, and rewarding of good or best practices.

Section 6. Institutionalization

Some of the strategic mechanisms established by top management to support GAD through the creation and strengthening of the GFPS. GAD Committee or TWG serves as the planners and implementers of GAD mainstreaming. It also refers to the issuance of policies and guidelines to hasten GAD mainstreaming, a GAD plan that spells out the agency's vision and goals with regard to GAD mainstreaming, translates and incorporates GAD into actual programs and projects, sets the direction of its mainstreaming efforts, and identifies institutional mechanisms, such as funding and staff, to be tapped in implementing GAD programs and projects.

Chapter 4

GENDER ANALYSIS AND TOOLS

For the effective implementation of GAD-related programs, projects and activities, gender analysis must be conducted to identify the differential status, needs and capabilities, roles and responsibilities of women and men in society as well as their access to and control of resources, benefits and opportunities. With regards to this, gender analysis tools such as the Gender Mainstreaming Evaluation Framework (GMEF) and Harmonized Gender and Development Guidelines (HGDG) must be utilized in the university.

Below are the guidelines on how to strengthen GAD mainstreaming not only in the university but also in the campus level.

Section 1. URS Guidelines on Strengthening GAD Policy and Mainstreaming Strategies in Compliance to the Magna Carta of Women (MCW)

1. Section 37 of the Implementing Rules and Regulations (IRR) of the Magna Carta of Women (RA 9710) mandates all government agencies, offices, bureaus, instrumentalities, state universities and colleges (SUCs), government-owned and controlled corporations, and local government units to pursue the adaptation of gender mainstreaming as a strategy to promote and fulfill women's human rights and eliminate gender discrimination in their systems, structures, policies, programs, and procedure
2. Gender Mainstreaming Evaluation Framework (GMEF) is a tool to measure the extent of the gender mainstreaming efforts of the organizations, both national government agencies and local government units. It is meant to assist the GAD Focal Point System (GFPS) members in measuring the gains and successes, as well as pinpoint areas for improvement in the way they mainstream the Gender and Development (GAD) perspective in their respective organization and can be used as basis in the formulation of the annual GAD plan and budget (GPB).
3. University of Rizal System as designated GAD Resource Center of CALABARZON by the Regional Development Council (RDC) Resolution No. IV-A-45-2005 is expected to institutionalize GAD policy and mainstreaming strategies in all campuses.

4. Pursuant to this, the following GAD mainstreaming strategies per entry point is hereby approved:

Section 2. Gender Mainstreaming Evaluation Framework (GMEF) Tool and Entry Points.

Chapter 13

Coordination, Implementation, Monitoring and Evaluation

The University may utilize or enhance existing and/or adopt new mechanism, systems and processes to monitor, and evaluate the implementation of the GAD Code.

1. In accordance with the overall GAD policy framework, the university and campus GFPS, in collaboration with the various offices and units, faculty, staff members, students, partner agencies, and other stakeholders, will be responsible for the operationalization of the GAD code. They will successfully work together to put the GAD Code into action.
2. As part of the monitoring and evaluation process, GAD coordinators from URS campuses must submit their GAD plan and budget, along with an accomplishment report, to assess the progress of programs, projects, and activities.
3. The university shall ensure that a participatory and consultative process is used in the monitoring and evaluation activity, which includes not only the university as the implementing institution, but also the key women and men affected or benefited by the programs, projects, and activities.
4. All concerned shall adopt and use the gender analysis tools with checklist like Gender Mainstreaming Evaluation Framework (GMEF) or Harmonized Gender and Development Guidelines (HGDG) or a modified monitoring and evaluation tool. Submit the university's consolidated GAD report, which should include not only the success of the projects, but also best practices and important GAD lessons.

Chapter 14

Budget Allocation

To effectively implement the GAD Code, the University must allocate at least five (5) percent of its annual budget to programs, projects, and activities that address gender issues and concerns and promote gender equality and empowerment. This is in accordance with RA 7192 and Section 28 of the General Appropriations Act of 1998.
